

Force Options Simulator (FOS)

The purpose of the program is to educate people who have an interest in learning about the decisions regarding use of force that deputies make in high-risk incidents and the physical and mental factors that affect that decision-making process. The Force Options Simulator (FOS) is an interactive high definition video device which allows for the use of replica laser devices to engage in force response simulations. The FOS has been empirically proven to be effective in: developing firearms accuracy, developing decision making skills, fostering community relations, and police performance research.
